

Yearbook Staff Calls Meeting For Next Week

A general meeting for the classes of January, May and July, 1949, to discuss details for the Evergreen annual will be held next Tuesday, July 6 at 12:30 p.m. Donald E. Fay, Editor-in-Chief, and the Rev. Joseph A. d'Invilliers, S.J., moderator, made the announcement.

The purpose of the meeting is to issue mimeographed sheets to all members of the three senior classes on which will be written information that is necessary for introductory work on the book.

To Vote On Dedication

Class members will vote on the dedication of the annual, and decide whether they want their senior portraits to be photographed in cap and gown, in summer or winter tuxedo, or informally.

Calvert Kenning, Business Manager, has announced that the advertising drive will open soon, and the usual 15% commission to all agents will be in effect.

Ad, Patron Fees Lower

Advertising and patron rates will be considerably lower than those of previous yearbooks if temporary plans are followed, Kenning announced.

Tentative plans call for the taking of the senior portraits in early October. The staff expects the rest of the photos to be taken by Loyola camera men.

Welsh Elected July '49 Head

Eugene Welsh, Samuel Phelps, Medio Waldt and William Schulz were voted the new officers of the July class of 1949 at elections on Tuesday afternoon.

One hundred thirty-one members of the class of approximately 215 participated in the balloting. Each voter was allowed to write four names from seven previously nominated. A point was given to each candidate for the number of times his name was written.

Welsh Tallies 92

Welsh became president by accumulating 92 votes. Phelps garnered 79 to win the vice-president position, while Waldt's 72 made him secretary. Schultz received 63 votes and thereby won the treasurer's post.

In addition to the winners, three other members of the class were nominated. They were John Anderson, Harry Fallon and Robert Nichols.

Same Seven Nominated

The entire election proceedings required over three weeks due to action of the Student Council to invalidate original nominations. Oddly enough, in the official nominations taken last week, the same seven men were made candidates.

In accordance with a Council ruling, three members of that group supervised all election activities. They were Edward J. McNeal, Thomas J. Ostendorf and Richard Reese.

Dramatic Society Elects Custer, Coleman Officers

Robert S. Custer became the new president of the Mask and Rapier Dramatic Society by vote of the members at a meeting of the group last week. Custer, former vice-president, has been active in dramatics since his enrollment in September, 1946. He played Yardley, the Sunpapers cartoonist, in the society's latest success, Marelyn.

Richard Coleman, another star of the satire on Maryland, was elected vice-president. Emerson V. Clarke was voted secretary and Cyril A. Keller treasurer.

Called Progressive Group

In addition to Custer, the former officers were Austin L. Byrd, president; John Downey, secretary; William Carver, treasurer. Mr. William-M. J. Driscoll, S.J., has been moderator of the group during the past three years.

During the meeting, Mr. Driscoll told the members that "this is one of the most progressive groups of amateurs in this city."

Full Schedule Ahead

Custer plans a full year of activity during the next year's term in co-operation with the group's new moderator, the Rev. Leo P. Monaghan, S.J.

During the past scholastic year, the dramatists have presented A Sound of Hunting, Everyman, Marelyn, a series of one-act plays and were largely responsible for Loyola Night.

Volume 21, Number 21

Take a look at the top of this page and you'll find that this issue of THE GREYHOUND represents Number 21 of Volume 21. This is the first time in eleven years that the paper bears the same number for Volume and Number.

There was a Volume 1, Number 1 on October 22, 1927, a Volume 2, Number 2 and so on through Volume 10, Number 10 in May, 1937. At that time, the paper's frequency was changed from bi-weekly to tri-weekly, thus making more than ten issues per year impossible.

Thus the eleven year break from then until now.

If THE GREYHOUND continues its present publication schedule, there'll be a 22-22 issue, the final edition of next year's volume.

Assistant To President Among Seven New Jesuits

Seven additions to the Jesuit faculty of the college, including the appointment of an assistant to the president and a treasurer, were announced on Friday, June 18, by the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J., President.

Father Gibbons returns to Evergreen after a three year absence. From September, 1942, to June, 1945, he was instructor in English and Speech, and served as moderator of THE GREYHOUND.

GOP Poll

Vandenberg Is Student Choice

by James H. Dietz

The results of a poll of one hundred Loyola students conducted three days before the conclusion of the Republican National Convention show that Loyolans did not see eye to eye with the Republican delegates in Philadelphia.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, was selected as the probable Republican presidential candidate.

Stassen A Close Second

Closely following Senator Vandenberg was ex-Governor Harold Stassen, of Minnesota. Governor Thomas Dewey, of New York, was third.

Governor Earl Warren, of California, and General of the Army Douglas MacArthur were fourth and fifth, respectively.

Vandenberg Receives 35 Votes

Of the one hundred students quizzed, thirty-five favored Vandenberg, and most believed he would be nominated as a compromise candidate on the second or third ballot.

Vandenberg supporters praised the senator's "integrity, mature judgment, and up-to-date views on foreign policy." They also pointed out that he commands the respect of both major parties.

Stassen's Navy Service Praised

Minnesota's ex-Governor Stassen was selected to win by twenty-eight students.

These students noted Stassen's "sensible management of labor disputes," his war-time service in the Navy, and his "general liberal outlook untainted by radicalism."

Sixteen Select Dewey

Governor Dewey received sixteen votes—less than half of Vandenberg's. Most of those students favoring Dewey predicted his selection on the first ballot.

They commended Dewey's "efficient New York government," his

Named Bellarmine

The name to the Loyola Chapter is the Robert Bellarmine Chapter of Loyola College. A large charter containing the names of the officers of the college, the moderators and the charter members was presented to Father Talbot by Dr. Potter, representing the national officers.

Each of the new members was presented with a special certificate denoting membership in the organization. Keys will be sent from the national headquarters.

Dr. Potter addressed the group after the ceremony and called to mind the responsibilities of their new positions.

Seniors Pick Thesis Topics

By reason of the recent announcement from the Office of the Dean of Studies, all members of the class of January 1949 have turned in their general choice for a senior thesis topic by yesterday.

The thesis will be written on some phase of the major field of the student, except in special cases when it may, with the approval of the Dean, be written on another subject.

List To Be Posted

The Dean's Office will post by July 8, a list of the graduating class with the titles of their thesis' and a Faculty Consultant. The mentor will help the student select the final restricted topic and advise him on sources of information for the paper.

Students Record Baby's Gurgle Or Death's Moan

by Robert S. Custer

From New York City comes word that the RCA Victor, Columbia, Decca, and Okey recording companies are going to consolidate to combat the powerful new recording company, "The Portable Recording Company" of Baltimore, Maryland.

Recently formed by two Loyola men, John C. Evelius and Lawrence R. Mooney, Jr., this new group scooped the music world by getting the contract to record the hit tunes from the Loyola College production of "Marelyn."

Quiet Recording

The specialty of the company is the recording of weddings. At such a recording, everything in the recording is completely concealed, there being no need for flash bulbs, or other visible equipment. The microphone may be placed up to six feet away and still get a good clear impression.

The recording may be secret and therefore, could be quite a "surprise" present to either the bride or bridegroom. Recitals, concerts, speeches and so on, done either in groups or individuals, can also be recorded easily by the "portable" people.

First Cut On Wire

Mr. Evelius explained that the recordings are first cut on a wire recorder machine and then transposed to the usual "platter." He went on to say, "We are a public-personal service; we record any place or any time, and use our own personal labels on each record."

The other member of the company, Mr. Mooney, asked to be quoted as saying, "We record anything from an infant's first gurgle to a dying man's last gasp."

Lack Of Activity Closes Snack Bar

Since the size of the student body is considerably smaller during the Spring Term, the Slater System at Loyola College has been forced to close the Snack Bar for the Summer.

Mr. Hare, the manager, stated that since activity in the Gym was virtually at a standstill, the income was not sufficient to warrant continued operation of the bar.

With the start of the term in September, the Snack Bar will reopen under the usual fall and winter schedule.

Evergreen Scenes

by Frank Gallagher

A rather strange and interesting history is bound up with the Loyola College Faculty House on the campus at Evergreen. A veritable legend concerning some of the happenings in the house has sprung up and has been transmitted by word of mouth for the past fifty years.

In 1895, Mr. T. Harrison Garrett, whose family had purchased Evergreen in 1878, decided to erect a mansion on the estate as a gift for his son, Horatio, who had just been married. Lawrence Aspinwall, a noted architect from New York, was engaged to design and supervise the construction of the mansion.

Horatio Garrett and his wife left for a honeymoon abroad before the mansion was completed. While on this trip, he died suddenly in England and his body was returned to this country.

He had never seen the mansion so consequently his wife had his body brought into the house. According to the story, she ordered that the body of her dead husband be taken through every room in the house from the cellar to the attic. There is some doubt as to the veracity of this story but many people insist that it was told by guides conducting visitors when the house was opened for inspection in 1921.

For four years, Garrett's widow lived in the mansion. After that time she returned to the home of her parents-in-law on the other part of the estate.

The United States Army leased the estate and some of the homes around it as a temporary rehabilitation center for blind casualties of the first World War. After holding it for three years, the Army relinquished its lease in 1921 and shortly afterwards, the Rev. Joseph A. McEneaney, S.J., President of Loyola College, secured permanent title.

On commencement day, June 12, 1922, the sixteen graduates watched the late Archbishop Michael J. Curley, break the ground for the new buildings to be erected on the campus.

Too Much Work Causes Kenton To Lose Three Star Musicians

by Larry Davis

Stan Kenton has set himself apart still further from his fellow band leaders. For four years now he has been playing music with a new sound, music that is distinctly Kenton, and now he sets the precedent of having his men quit because of too much work.

Leaders have lost men in the past principally for low salaries and lack of work. This is not so in Stan's case, however, for he has long been recognized as paying some of the highest salaries in the business, but he is working his men too hard and the strain is beginning to show.

From Dance To Concert

Stan has gradually transformed his band from a dance orchestra into a concert orchestra featuring arrangements that cause his brass section to do feats of breath control. He terms his concerts "Progressive Jazz Concerts," a title which truly fits, and has worked twenty-two of them through the month of May and early June culminating with an appearance at the Hollywood Bowl on June 12.

It was a rapid series of one-night dance stands that brought about Kenton's breakdown last year; and since a concert is more work than a dance-date, it looks as though Stan may be headed for the hospital again.

New Kentonites

Some of the replacements in the Kenton crew are: Harry DeVito for Eddie Burt, high-note trombone artist; Irv Kluger for Shelley Manne, top percussionist in the "Downbeat" and "Metronome" polls; and Ed Badgely for Ken Hanna, third trumpet from Baltimore. Ken, incidentally, has returned to this city and is taking pupils in music arranging. He did some of Stan's finest arrangements.

Let's hope that Stan will slow down before he breaks down. It would be a real shame to see such a fine band fall apart simply because of physical inability to stand the strain of so much work.

Evening School Registrar Will Marry July 31

Francis J. Sweeney, Jr., '48 will be married to Miss Jeannette Hummer on July 31, at St. Edward's Church. Miss Hummer is a Secretary in the Baltimore office of the C. Y. O.

Frank Sweeney, recently appointed Registrar to the Evening School and Adult Education will continue his duties in that office following his graduation July 15 and his honeymoon in August.

New Instructor Served With British In Egypt

Mr. Roger C. Tyler, M. A., who is beginning his teaching career at Loyola, is conducting classes in Speech II during the Spring Term.

A graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy, he attended Harvard long enough to play a season of football and then joined the American Field Service. As a member of the ambulance unit, he served eight months in Egypt and Syria with the British 8th Army.

Received M. A. At Hopkins

On his return, he worked as copy boy for the Boston American Record before entering the University of New Hampshire. He was graduated in 1946 with his Bachelor of Arts degree and went on to obtain an M. A. at Hopkins, doing his main work in Latin, Greek and Classical Archaeology.

Mr. Tyler is married and has a five-year-old daughter. He hopes to continue teaching and studying classics as a hobby. Having played on the team at Harvard, he prefers football as his favorite sport.

Teaches Public Speaking

His work during the Spring Term consists mainly in teaching two Junior classes the art of speaking in orderly assemblies.

The end of the course is "a comprehensive knowledge of Robert's Rules of Order." To this end, Mr. Tyler has class assemblies in which the students take turns as chairman and secretary in order to learn the correct ways to transact the business of a group.

Dean Lists Exam Dates

Two sets of examinations face a large number of the student body within the next two weeks. Tutoring examinations will begin on Tuesday, July 6 and extend through until Friday, July 9.

The days when the particular examinations will be taken along with the rooms in which they will be taken are listed on the Dean's bulletin board.

Regular Exams

Regular examinations given at the completion of the term will start on Thursday, July 15 and will extend through until Saturday, July 17.

Speech examinations will be administered by the instructors on the final day of class. A complete list of rules governing examinations has been placed on the Dean's Bulletin Board.

List Rules

Students were reminded to have all accounts settled with the office of the Treasurer by July 9. Those students who for any reason do not take the regular exams will have to take a condition to be given at a later date.

The usual rules concerning students who are detected using unfair methods will also be in effect. The Office of the Dean has particularly requested that no student come to that office seeking results of the examinations.

The marks will be mailed home and if anyone desires them earlier, he is to see his instructor.

"middle-of-the-road stand," and his "outstanding speaking ability."

Gen. MacArthur Praised

Governor Warren was picked by 10 students, and General MacArthur, by 6.

Warrenites predicted the California governor's nomination on the basis of his "unusual Mid- and Far-Western background," and on his "honest, quiet governing of his home state." Gen. MacArthur was praised for his "sound handling of defeated Japan," and his "strong anti-Communist stand."

Five Didn't Know

Five students frankly admitted that they did not know who would be the Republican choice for the presidency.

Quizzed further, they proved to be Democrats who believed that the Republican Convention's candidate would be "unimportant since President Truman will be re-elected."

Two Professors Selected By Who's Who

Drs. Francis E. A. Litz and John J. O'Connor, instructors in the Loyola Evening School, were listed in the 1948-49 edition of The American Catholic Who's Who.

These Evening School instructors are in addition to the seven Day School teachers who were listed in the June 4 issue of THE GREYHOUND.

Native Baltimorean

Dr. Litz, who teaches English at Loyola, is a native of Baltimore. He received his early education at St. Charles College, and later attended St. Mary's Seminary, where he was awarded his B. A. and M. A. degrees. He received his Ph. D. from the Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Litz has taught at St. Charles College, Hopkins, Baltimore City College, and the University of Maryland. He was head of the English Department of Western High School from 1928-37 and associate Professor of English at Catholic University from 1937-48. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and the author of a number of books.

Attended Georgetown

Dr. O'Connor is an instructor in philosophy in the Evening School. A native of Washington, D. C., he attended Georgetown University, where he got his A. B., M. A., and Ph. D. degrees.

He was assistant Professor of History at Georgetown from 1927 until 1936, at which time he took over the same position at St. John's University, Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. O'Connor served in the Ordinance Department of the United States Army from 1943-45. He returned to the Georgetown School of Foreign Service in 1947, and assumed his present position at Loyola this year.

Sophomore Class Preparing Plans For July Moonlight

The Class of July '50 will sponsor a moonlight cruise on the Chesapeake Bay on the evening of July 17.

At two class meetings held during the week of June 13, the Sophomores decided to extend participation in this outing to all Loyola students. Tickets for the excursion are $1.15, including tax, per person.

Sextet To Be Provided

Edward Clarke, president of the Sophomore Class, announced, "A sextet is being organized by Lawrence Davis, chairman of the entertainment committee, from various leading bands throughout the city. We urge everyone to attend this major school activity."

The publicity committee for the excursion is headed by William Dempsey and Daniel Shehan. Francis Barrett and Milton Harris are in charge of the ticket committee. All committees were announced in the Sophomore Bulletin.

Picnic Also Considered

The Class of July '50 has also planned a picnic, which will be held within the next two weeks if possible. The picnic would be restricted to Sophomores only. The definite time and place will be decided at a future class meeting. It may be put off because of the other class activity.

John Cleckner heads the picnic committee. He is assisted by Samuel Althoff.

Mr. Lischka Quoted In Time Magazine

Mr. Charles N. Lischka, instructor in German and Parliamentary Procedure at Loyola, made Time last week. He sent a letter to the editor of that sister publication wherein he expressed his approval concerning an article published previously concerning New York.

The editors were kind enough to remove one of the sentences from that letter and include it in their letters-to-the-editor section.

Mr. Lischka did not care to comment other than to ask "Where will you hide?"

The Critilog

by George Herman

This is the season when flowers bloom on Broadway and music is heard all along the Great White Way. It is the birthday of promising composers and talented lyricists. Occasionally, the composers produce such a bumper crop of good and mediocre scores that they have to visit the graveyards to find some talented poet who is capable enough to set their marvelous music to verse.

Many, many years ago, in old Scotland—no relation to Brigadoon—a young farmer turned out reams of beautiful lyrics and made his name world famous. Not so many years ago, Henry Sullivan produced a few songs and still nobody has heard of him. Thus the fates in the guise of John Kennedy have been fit to blend the not-so-pleasant music with the wonderful lyrics of Burns in the form of a so-called musical play Auld Lang Syne. This production opened in St. Louis on June 3 to a packed house and is still playing to a packed house. Broadway will, no doubt, see the show next season and it will probably be a success. If it is, we may thank Brain Sullivan, the sparkling tenor, and Bobby Jarvis, new comedy star.

Auld Lang Syne includes bagpipes, kilts and a Scottish sword dance—all reminiscent of Brigadoon. A few of the songs will probably make the jukeboxes with a little pressure from the publishing company.

On Broadway, instead of a dead lyricist, we have a dead author. Poor Washington Irving has been revived to make a slightly-spoiled version of the old "Legend of Sleepy Hollow." The new show, a musical-comedy, is billed as Sleepy Hollow and unfortunately, it isn't doing so well. It seems strange that such a story with color of old New England, such fine characters, and sets by Jo Mielziner, should fail at the B. O., but Jane Watson and Hayes Gordon just can't seem to save it. Which probably goes to show that there's no business like show business and that's nobody's business.

Be Party-Wise

To the young man who is fast approaching the age of twenty-one, a genuine difficulty presents itself in the choice of a political party. Shall I be a Democrat or a Republican? It would seem an easy task to determine for what basic principles each stands and then to join forces with the one whose views are more appealing.

However this cannot be done. The political demagogue, usually a well-spring of verbiage, is at a loss for explanation when asked to state the differences between his own and the party he opposes. The most he can do is to reduce the question to individuals. With sweeping gestures and gushing phrases, he will describe the chasms of nobility residing within the bosoms of his party's leaders and the utter stupidity and gross inability of the leaders of the opposition.

He cannot, however, give you any appreciable differences between the two nor any genuinely sound reasons why you should join his party other than a few sly hints that you will be provided for by the party deities with whom he rubs elbows occasionally at Olympian crab feasts.

The more educated of the great unwashed will tell you that the difference can be found in the party stand on taxes and tariffs. If, however, you were to follow their arguments to their logical conclusion, it would appear that the rich would belong to one party and the poorer to the other. Once again, this is not the case.

The truth seems to be that in this nation the major political parties are not far apart on most issues. At election times, they adopt those policies which they believe will reap the most votes. Four years later, they may do a complete about-face if they think it will increase the vote harvest.

A Capable Job

The present administration of the Student Council has been faced at the beginning of its reign with a number of problems more serious and complex than those which have threatened previous administrations. These problems include the revision of the constitution and the handling of elections, two most controversial matters.

Those who have attended the council meetings recently realize just how strong are the sentiments and feelings of certain factions of the school. Disputes between these factions have placed the Council President in a rather ticklish situation many times.

May I Cut In?

In recent years, it has become the fashion to come late to dances. It has come to be considered somewhat of a social taboo to be the first couple to take the floor at a dance. This is a rather strange turn of events and it grows progressively worse.

People persist in coming to dances later and later. If this trend continues, it will not be too long until they arrive after the dance or rather after the dance-music is completed.

Perhaps it would be in order for THE GREYHOUND to assert official dogma on dances. Dances are not evil, they are good. It is not a sinful thing to be among the first to enter a ballroom. You will not be commanded to imbibe freely from a bowl of spiked hemlock if you wish to dance before the others care to do so.

No one, at least not the more rational of the human race, would even think of entering a theatre when the production is half completed. What can be the sense in waiting until everyone else has gathered in the ballroom and then making a majestic entrance such as is reserved for kings and queens. Nobility is dying, this is the age of the common man.

However, he has handled himself with a sense of equity which must be commended. He has been impartial; he has not attempted to thrust his own personal feelings into any discussions, no matter how heated they have been. For his sensible attitude, he is to be congratulated.

To those who criticize unjustly any action which the council has taken, we remind them that it is a far easier thing to be an omniscient Monday morning quarterback than a man who has to make a decision in a time of stress and strain.

The most hollow rumbling comes from empty casks.

Letters To The Editor

The Editorial Staff of THE GREYHOUND is particularly anxious to have the students use this column as a medium for expression. Names will be withheld upon request. However, we will not print any letters which are not signed.

Address all correspondence to the Editor of THE GREYHOUND, Loyola College, Baltimore, Maryland.

Last month, a letter signed by a person identified only as "An Old Grad" was received and printed. The letter blasted several of the practices of THE GREYHOUND and the college student of today. The letters printed beneath were received in answer.

Pro

Dear Sir:

I was highly impressed by the letter written by The Old Grad which was published in the last issue of THE GREYHOUND. However, I thought he missed a number of points which peeve the older graduates.

Today, the college man seems to believe that social life takes precedence over educational duties. You have only to take an impromptu survey of the bars and grills on York Road on any so-called school night to see how dutifully the college students are tending to their education which is their precious prerogative as Americans.

The upper classmen have had their feet on the bar rails so long that they have left permanent impressions on the metal. The only education they receive is a knowledge of the movement of malt molecules in twelve ounce beer glasses.

The college boys of today would do well to investigate how much more difficult the courses were in previous years. It seems that because the colleges want to regain the revenue lost during the war, they have inaugurated a course for every mental level. Some of the baser levels are insults to grammar school diplomas.

I only hope that education will survive this scourge and return to normalcy before the torch of knowledge blows a fuse.

Class of '29

Con

Dear Old Grad,

As the horse and buggy went the way of other non-usable items, so should you do likewise. Yours is a case of sad melancholy of a lost youth. It behooves one, no matter how many degrees held, to read something at one time or another, of affairs concerning our government and its policies.

As for THE GREYHOUND picking a fight, can you tell me of a newspaper or periodical today that doesn't advocate some kind of fight for a cause that may or may not be justifiable.

In regard to telling our elders what to do, I think that in some cases this would be a fine idea. Our elders seem to take a paternalistic attitude towards all matters of home and state. The youth of America will not be bound in a holocaust of disreputable accusation and still remain silent. Old Age has its dominance, but youth has its impetuosity. Serve one and you must serve the other.

You have taken upon yourself the task as a doting grandfather to spank a paper for expressing the feeling of a youth that will be heard in spite of recriminations.

In reference to our textbooks, we only get out of our books what we put into them. You might have digested them, but we will always have them because we speak our minds in order to express what we have learned. When we speak, we say what we mean; when you digest, you absorb, but impart no knowledge.

BOOKS

Books! Books! Books! Thousands of books are at your disposal in the library. Are you one of the few who can find the answers to the following questions? What reference book would you use?

1) What is the postal rate for air mail to French Indo China?

2) Find a list of recent articles on Military bases.

3) What book contains a biographical sketch of Robert Frost and a list of his writings

4) Name the 10 main classes of the Dewey Decimal System and the principle sub-subjects covered by each.

5) Where will you find a brief authoritative article on the Sacrament of Penance?

6) What book contains brief biographical material on Orville Wright?

7) Find an authoritative article covering geographical, historical, political, economic, and social aspects of Chile.

8) What are the meanings of the abbreviations D.E., D.R.C.M., M.N.S., and I.M.D.?

9) Find a biographical sketch of Wm. Henry Seward, American statesman.

The next issue of THE GREYHOUND will list the reference books which have the answers.

The library has received many new books within the past week. Among the most important are the following: Nicoll's The Development of the Theatre which is a study of theatrical art from the beginning to the present day; Zacharias' Protohistory which recounts the development of human thought from paleolithic times to the Persian monarchy; Wilder's The Ides of March which portrays Caesar as he appeared to himself, his family, his legions, his Rome, his empire in the months immediately preceding his death.

Running With The Hounds

Mascot Should Have Official Guardians

by Mickey Parr, Sports Editor

Navy has its goat, Yale has its bulldog, and now Loyola has its greyhound.

He's a bit gaunt, having lost 20 pounds during a period when he ran away from home, but he's expected to be in great shape by September.

With a living symbol of Loyola athletic prowess gracing the campus, it is very clear that the one big job of the new arrival will be to serve as an inspirational element to Green and Gray athletes.

Needs Proper Handling

However, if 'Boy', as he is called, is going to be on the sidelines when opposing teams visit Evergreen, it will be necessary that he have proper handling during the games.

That means that he should really have two official student keepers, whose part would be to keep our greyhound prominently displayed through victory or defeat. These keepers could come from the current ranks of cheer leaders, or from any of the members of Loyola's fast-growing student body.

There's a proposition, men! Let's hear your opinions on the matter.

Baker Accorded Honor

In last month's all-star lacrosse game played at Homewood Field between the stick forces of the North and those of the South, two Evergreen representatives were entered under the southern banner and noted for it in the June 18 issue of THE GREYHOUND.

However, no mention was made of the fact that Bishop Baker was one of two assistants appointed by the governing body of collegiate lacrosse to aid Howdy Meyers in readying the Rebel ten for the big test.

There are something like 16 colleges and universities which come under the southern division of schools fielding a team in the old Indian game. This means, of course, that Bish, who has guided Greyhound lacrosse efforts for the past two seasons, was accorded quite an honor in being named to the South coaching staff.

Intramurals Hold Important Spot

It has been very encouraging to note the unusually lively interest in the Spring Intramural Softball program. The rivalry is keen, and most of the participants take the contests quite seriously.

Let us hope that this is the first step toward increased student activity in intramurals during the school year of 1948-49.

These 'sports within the walls' were instituted solely for the enjoyment and benefit of that majority of the student body which do not possess enough ability to land a varsity berth, and yet retain the old desire to get into a little action.

Next fall we would like to see a rising surge of applications for Intramural team entries. This would be one of the best things that could happen to Loyola, for it would indicate an increase of student interest in athletics.

Remember, no matter what the varsity squads' won-lost records may be, a student backed team is a successful team.

Pahr Trounces Wagner To End Evening School Tennis Match

A successful completion of the Evening School's first athletic endeavor materialized as the Tennis Tourney was completed with Robert Pahr trouncing Hugh Wagner 6-0, 6-1.

Pahr and Wagner, the two final contestants out of the original field of eight, forged their way to the front and met for top honors.

Pahr gained the finals by thoroughly trouncing Phil Lohrey 6-2, 6-1. Wagner experienced a little difficulty in the second set of his semi-final match, but came through over Gordon Erberts, 6-2, 6-4.

In the preceeding round of play, Pahr defeated Dick Bradyhouse, Lohrey conquered Tom Garrity, Wagner eliminated Douglas Penniman and Erberts swept past Johnny Grimm.

Banquet Ends Sports Year

by John E. Bailey

Loyola College officially ended its 1947-48 sports calendar last Wednesday with the annual banquet in the Alumni Gymnasium. Once again the curtain dropped on a successful season.

Reviewing the year, the Greyhounds copped three major championships and added one hundred and sixty athletes to its roll of honor by awarding them monograms for their excellent records.

Reitz Presents Letters

Athletic Director Emil Reitz presented the men with individual awards and personally thanked each one for aiding him in molding a record that Loyola rooters can be proud to review.

Publicity Director Dick Hartman, who did a yeoman job this past year on the basketball programs, received a special token of its appreciation from the A. A. office for his hours of tedious work; hours that often kept him in the Gym long after the basketeers had departed to warmed-over suppers.

Rector Speaks

The President of the College, The Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S. J., extended, on behalf of the faculty, a warm "thank you" to the athletes. He was gratified to learn that many of the lettermen had also compiled enviable records on the scholastic front.

The Athletic Moderator, Rev. Robert P. Arthur, S. J., followed with a promise of even better things next year.

Buffet Style Dinner

Acting on the order of Lefty Reitz, the ice cream table was fully loaded and the athletes thus filled what little room they had after raiding the buffet tables. The Slater System under the capable eye of Brother Paul J. Brennan, S. J., prepared the banquet.

The "For Men Only" placard was very much in evidence and the men seemed to enjoy themselves to the utmost. The fact that the banquet was a 'family' affair only, kept the evening's activities on a very informal plane.

This marked a change in previous policy since admittance was closed to all but invited guests.

Gizmos and Dark Horses Tied In Softball Race

by Bob Roesner

As the softball race goes into the hot summer stretch and eight teams battle it out for medal honors, it seems as if one favorite and one dark horse will battle right to the wire.

At present the Gizmos, pre-tournament favorite, share the league lead with the Dark Horses with five wins and one loss.

Faculty Adds Students

Due to the inability of the faculty to field a complete team, because of schedule difficulties, an open race has been inaugurated with the faculty filling in with student members and alumni. This makes them ineligible for the medal awards. Additions to the faculty team include Bill Johnson, Bob Barry, Ed McGarry and Bill Tucker.

From all indications, the powerhouse Gizmos will be on top when the race ends. Since last issue, these potent stickmen have downed the Tadpoles, 7-6; Higgies Huskies, 9-1 and the Credits 7-5.

Nugent Leads Club

The spark plug of the Gizmos is Tommy Nugent who not only keeps the rest of the players on their toes with his chatter, but at the present time is leading the club with his consistent hitting.

Atop the league with the Gizmos are the Dark Horses led by Ben Spurrier. They have downed Mawthuh's Klub 12-7; Tadpoles by forfeit; Higgies Huskies, 12-2 and lost to the Faculty 3-1. The Faculty also handed the Gizmos their first loss 6-5.

A possible winner also could be Higgies Huskies lead by Jim Mitchell. They have won three and lost two, downing the Faculty, 11-0 and the Dead Enders, 21-6 while losing to the Mawthuh's Klub 9-0.

The following standings are inclusive of games on Friday, June 25.

Race Standings:

Gizmos .....	5-1
Dark Horses .....	5-1
Faculty .....	4-2
Higgies Huskies .....	3-2
Mawthuh's Klub .....	2-4
Credits .....	2-3
Dead Ends .....	1-4

Tadpoles .....	1-4

Laroque Heads '49 Net Team

Announcement has been made by Mr. Vincent J. Colimore, Loyola tennis coach, that Jerry Laroque has been voted Captain of the Greyhound net squad for 1949.

Laroque has completed two seasons of very successful play for the Green and Grey tennis team. During the 1948 campaign he triumphed 16 times in 17 singles matches.

The new Captain replaces Frank Scrivener, who was graduated in May.

Unheralded Athletes Cited

by Vince Bagli

Though there were quite a few stars on the various Loyola sports crews during the past year, we'd like to dedicate a few words here to those fellows who missed the headlines, but in the opinion of their coaches, were invaluable assets to the team.

Tom Gisriel, operating in the pivot spot on the hardwood five, engineered many a Greyhound two pointer with sharp feeds to scoring aces Lacy and Zedalis. Although the big center didn't tally too often, his absence was sorely felt when he wasn't in the lineup.

Linz Deserves Credit

Soccer Coach Bish Baker thinks that Hank Linz deserves credit for the great job he did with the M-D runners-up. Hank didn't break any scoring records but he did dig in all the way, and directed many passes which brother Bill and Nick Kropfelder converted into goals.

We also asked Bish about his lacrosse outfit and who worked the hardest and received the least acclaim. "Vince McGuinness, our captain, was on the club for three years, never missed a practice and had a steadying influence on the midfield with his deliberate style of play."

Laroque Has Sensational Record

According to tennis Coach Vince Colimore, the man who suffered the toughest break of the year and still turned in a sensational record was Jerry Laroque. This diminutive netman lost a tough decision when overmatched against Catholic U, but came back strong to rack up 16 wins against the lone setback.

Swimming Coach Franny Mueller nominates Andy McCormick as his unsung hero. "The youngster possessed a lot of natural ability and really worked hard to do a great job as handyman.

Saltysiak Invaluable

The number three man on the golf team, Len Saltysiak, turned in a sparkling 8-1 ledger, and scored well in all of the tournaments. His game was the steadiest on the team.

Jack Enoch wrestled in the tough 136-pound class and held his own against all opposition. After 3 years on the varsity the senior bone-bender finished second in the M-D Tournament as a climax to a fine, but unheralded career.

Boone Most Consistent

Diamond mentor Lefty Reitz was unhesitant in his selection of the unsung baseball hero. "Dan Boone was our most consistent ball player. He was a defensive stalwart in our outfield, hustled, and hit right up there with the leaders."

Bill McElroy, Track Coach, calls Johnny Paszek his unsung hero. "He trained hard and always placed in the races, to run up points for the Greyhounds", said Mac.

Loyola Sports Pass In Review, September To May

Reproduced on pages 6 and 7 is a brief pictorial resumé of Loyola's successful 1947-48 sports year.

From Father Talbot's opening roll-off for the Alumni Bowling League, and Nick Kropfelder's driving soccer boots, to the title winning golfers with Len Saltysiak among the top four, it has been an exciting, sports-jammed year.

The Line-Up

Nolan Follows Course Blazed By His Father

(This is another in a series of articles on outstanding Loyola athletes)

by Gerry McCormick

The tall, red-haired boy was being hard-pressed by the steady, methodical play of Catholic University's Stan Levy. Suddenly the Loyola player changed his tactics, became more aggressive and rushed the net often. The staid Mr. Levy became upset, started to make errors, and finally collapsed completely as his opponent blasted him right off the court.

This was another occasion when years of experience and study of tennis paid off for Gene Nolan. Next year's probable number two man on the tennis squad has been playing since he was very young, with the encouragement and advice of his father, Mr. Eugene Nolan, Sr., who is a former tennis star from New York.

Strong Backhand

After playing tennis for City College, Gene has put in two seasons for the Greyhounds, amassing an excellent 25-6 record. Two of the high spots of his career were his victories over Levy and Charley Palms of Georgetown this year.

Gene's forte is his unusually powerful backhand. Gene tends to agree with those scientifically minded experts who claim that the backhand shot is potentially more powerful than the forehand since it is closer to the body and actually is propelled by the pivot of the body, thus requiring little force from the shoulder.

Practice Is Fun

Practice is necessarily long in tennis, but Gene enjoys it and especially likes to work on his service. He considers this the hardest shot to make, requiring accuracy, power and form, a point on which Mr. Vincent Colimore, Loyola coach, has aided him greatly. He overcomes the natural tendency to quit when losing by playing for each point and disregarding the previous games.

Yes, That Odd Animal Is A Genuine Greyhound

by C. Rodgers Kines

Loyola has recently acquired its third Greyhound mascot in the person of "Rollins Boy," a genuine pedigreed greyhound. Previous to Boy, two greyhounds roamed the campus together. One died as the result of its mourning over the earlier death of its fellow.

The new mascot is in a rather weakened condition due to its having been lost for the last two months. He ran away from home at the age of seven months but was recovered by his master, Mr. Clyde Shugart, after some time.

Recovered By Picture

Rollins Boy was sired by Larry A. P. Rollins, the eighth-best stud dog in the country. This rating by the bluebloods of dogdom is decided by the number of races won by his offspring.

The greyhound was born in Cockeysville and was recovered after his travels by a picture which was run by Rodger Pippen on his sports page. This should put an end to Loyola remarks about the canines on Pippen's page. They helped Loyola get a greyhound.

Donor Football Star

Mr. Shugart presented the greyhound to Loyola when Jack Pryor, a sophomore at the College, asked if he could supply Evergreen with a mascot. Mr. Shugart played tackle and guard with the first-string squad of the Washington "Redskins," having made "All-State" while playing for Iowa State University for three years.

Boy is expected to recover weight and strength with the care that he is receiving.

This space was originally to have been occupied by a picture of the greyhound which has been given to Loyola. However, the dog failed to keep several appointments to be photographed.

On several occasions, he was spotted by photographers of THE GREYHOUND, but he refused to stand still long enough to be photographed. It proved too difficult a task to have a photographer romp over the campus in pursuit of a picture-shy dog.

The Editor extends his sincere regrets to the student body and hopes to remedy this situation as soon as conditions permit. In the meantime, amateur photographers are invited to try their hand at this tedious work.

Writers Hear Father Talbot

The Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J., president of Loyola College, addressed the students of the Journalism Workshop in the Evening School and Adult Education last Monday evening.

Father Talbot was invited to speak by Mr. T. Paul Broderick, instructor in journalism and assistant City Editor of The Baltimore Evening Sun. Father Talbot spoke to the group about experiences while working as Literary Editor and Editor-in-chief of America, the national Jesuit weekly.

Father Talbot opened the floor to questions and was quizzed about famous literary persons with whom he had come into contact in his years as Literary Editor.

Father Talbot concluded his talk by urging the young journalists to practice as often as possible and to gain a facility for self-expression. He told them of the pressing need for good Catholic and good American writers.

Dean Of Men Assigns New College Offices

The Rev. Robert P. Arthur, S.J., Dean of Men, recently announced important changes in office locations throughout the school. He said that these new office changes were deemed necessary and advisable by the school administration.

Father Arthur's Office will be moved to the present site of the College bookstore. This vacancy will be filled by the staff of THE GREYHOUND.

Bookstore To Expand

The bookstore will increase its present facilities by expanding into the present Greyhound Office. This expansion was necessitated by the increase in the number of articles handled by the bookstore and the lack of proper storage space for extra volumes.

The present bookstore room will be paneled and completely converted for the use of Father Arthur. As soon as the change has been effected, all of Father Arthur's business will be transacted in his new office.

Classroom Added

The Veterans' Administration Office in the basement of the Science Building has been redecorated and will now provide three rooms. A classroom will occupy the larger room and the Veterans' Administration will receive a smaller office.

The Evergreen Quarterly will also be given an office in the Science Building basement. Father Arthur expressed the hope that this action would fulfill a definite need for the publication.

Addition To Gym Planned

Russian and Nursing Added To Night School Curriculum

Two courses, one in Russian and one in Nursing, top the list of additions to the Evening School's curriculum. These courses will make their initial appearance on the schedule along with numerous others in September.

Miss Larissa Patrekeyeva will lecture on the Russian language and Miss Margaret G. Thompson will head the Department of Nursing.

Teacher Born In Russia

Miss Patrekeyeva was born in Russia and has taught Russian in the United States for some time. It is planned to give an elementary course in Russian during the coming year and to follow this course with an advanced course. Both must be taken in order to obtain any credits in the subject.

This course will include an introduction to phonetics, essentials of grammar and graded reading. The course is designed for students who have had no previous study of Russian.

Nursing Course Outlined

The Nursing Course will include credits in Clinical Teaching and Ward Management. The principles involved in the instruction of nurses in the hospital, the planning of clinical teaching and the assignment and supervision of students in the wards will be covered.

Miss Thompson who will head the Department of Nursing has received an A.B. degree from Mercyhurst College, a B.S. from the Catholic University of America and a M.A. from Marywood College. At present she is on the staff of a Baltimore hospital.

Other Courses Added

Two courses have been added to the Department of Economics, one in Foreign Trade and one in Export and Import Practices. The Department of Education boasts of six additions, Co-Curricular Activities, Educational Statistics, Principles of Guidance, Vocational Guidance and Occupational Information, Testing in the Guidance Program, and Educational Supervision.

Courses in Shakespeare and Milton will be given in English. In addition to the above mentioned subjects, new courses have been added to almost every department of the Evening School. The Registrar of the Evening School, Mr. Francis J. Sweeney, Jr., urges all those interested in Evening School courses to consult the 1948-49 Evening School Catalogue which may be obtained in the Registrar's Office.

Juniors Hear Discussion On Military Training Bill

A large number of Juniors recently attended the debate over the Military Training Bill before the Congress of the United States. The aspiring legislators reached the Capitol by car and attended the debates on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the week of June 13.

Mr. Colimore, Mr. Perrott, and Mr. Lischka visited the Capitol with their respective classes.

Meet Senator Taft

Some of the students were able to meet Senator Taft during their visit to Washington and reported that his views on the topic of the discussion proved most interesting.

Senator O'Connor escorted the visitors on one of the days, pointing out the scenes of interest and introducing the students to numerous dignitaries, one of whom was Adolph Menjou, noted movie star.

Garmatz Assists

Representative Garmatz further helped the students gain a better view of the proceedings by attending them in their observations.

The English class that visited the Capitol also took in Henry V, adding a bit of their Shakespeare English course to their intended purposes. All spoke of the excursion as very informative and well worth the time.

Heffner Announces Quarterly Plans

The winners of the Quarterly Literary Contest will be announced in the next issue of the Evergreen Quarterly and two of the three winning stories will be printed. William Heffner, editor, announced.

A special illustration prepared by James Lightner of the Quarterly photography staff will be printed with a story which was written by John Dagallitis. The picture is a sort of surrealistic montage which carries the impression of the story.

This issue of the publication will contain forty pages and will follow the modernistic make-up which was inaugurated in the last issue. "The Quarterly will utilize two colors to bring about a striking arrangement of articles and poems," Heffner further stated.

This will be the third and final issue of the current scholastic year.

Entertainment Calendar

MOVIES

THE CENTURY — Esther Williams, Jimmy Durante and Peter Lawford prove to be another winning combination in MGM's new laughter-filled technicolor musical "On an Island With You."

In a premier performance on July 8, the Century will present Irving Berlin's technicolor musical "Easter Parade." It stars Judy (I'm for Wallace) Garland and Fred (I'm retiring after this one) Astair.

KEITH'S marque advertises a hilarious fun-filled show "Dream Girl" with energetic Betty Hutton and MacDonald Carey.

STANLEY—"The Emperor Waltz" has finally arrived in Baltimore. Exactly one year ago, it was well-liked in Boston and rightly so since a show co-starring Bing Crosby and Joan Fontaine has little chance of being a dud. Der Bingle does quite a bit of yodeling while roaming through the colorful alpine scenes.

TOWN — Walt Disney comes through with another hit cartoon, "Melody Time" starring Dennis

Day, Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, Freddy Martin and a host of other great names in entertainment. It promises seven new wonderful songs in the Disney style.

HIPPODROME — Red Skelton and Janet Blair get together in a rollicksome comedy entitled "The Fuller Brush Man."

STAGE

The Olney Theater players, located at Olney, Maryland, are presenting the "Philadelphia Story" by Phillip Barry. It stars Diana Barrymore.

The Hilltop Players are now producing Hagar Wild's, "Made in Heaven".

The Ramsey Street Players in the Cedarcroft Theater are producing "Dear Ruth" tonight and tomorrow and "Kind Lady" next Wednesday through Saturday.
